

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements

I The Need for Cost Information

Process of Cost Analysis
The Need for Cost Analysis
Cost Analysis and Government Accounting
Cost Analysis and Cost Accounting
Design of the Book

II Accounting and Cost Analysis

III The Uses of Cost Information

A Lesson From the Private Sector
Costing Analysis Applications
Cost Analysis and Policy Makers
Rationality and the Political Process
Understanding Government Expenditures

IV First Steps

Budgeting and Cost Analysis
Defining the Service
Selecting Units of Service Delivery

V Core Cost Concepts

Indirect Costs
Direct Costs
Additional Cost Concepts
No Single Concept Addresses All Needs

V-A A Case Study in Total Cost

VI The Allocation of Indirect Cost

A Case Study in Cost Allocation
Indirect Cost Allocation Plans
Other Uses of Indirect Cost Rates

VII Costing Techniques

A Case in Cost Analysis—Problem Statement
Solution Outline
More on Direct Costs
Problem Solution

Other Considerations
Indirect Costs
Special Issues

VIII Pricing Government Services

IX Case Studies in Costing

A Note on Report Writing
City of Phoenix, Arizona: Avoidable Cost
Fayetteville: Pricing a Service
City of Dayton, Ohio: Costing New Services—Marginal Cost Analysis
A Three Part Case Study in Contracting Out

X Costing Labor Contracts

XI EVALUATING CONTRACTING OUT: ESTABLISHING COST/QUALITY COMPARISON GUIDELINES

Step One: Define the Service
Step Two: Determine the Total and Avoidable Cost of the Service
Step Three: The Case for In-house Delivery
Step Four: Solicit Bids
Step Five: Selecting a Provider
Step Six: Administer the Contract
Possible Problems With Contracting Out

Appendices

Four Exercises in Costing (With Solutions)
Riverbridge Has a Problem
Allocating Rent
True-False Test
Two Officer Patrol Cars

Bibliography

Glossary